578 GALLONS OF ICE CREAM AT HIS PICNIC.

Chinese, Irish and Everybody Else Not Grown Up Ride Straight to Happiness in Forty Special Cars Secret of Yesterday's Sunshine Is Revealed.

Call up or drop a note to-day to Miss Loreto Gildes of 27 Oliver street, Second Assembly district, if the good weather of yesterday helped you any. Loreto, straightening her hair ribbons amid the swirl of future voters and future suffragettes at Tom Foley's picnic, Sulzer's Harlem River Park, yesterday, was authority for the statement that even if September 1 had fallen on August 31 this year there would have been no rain.

Loreto began praying for a sunny September 1 just nine Fridays ago. The holiday. news spread along Oliver street, and so did the daily prayers. On Thursday night two unbelievers of Loreto's age day Monday. came to her to complain that things looked pretty black. The unbelievers even went so far as partly to accuse Loreto of causing them many worthless moments of prayer, but Loreto says that she prayed for Tom Foley and clear weather that Warren St. night the same as usual.

Was she right? Huh! Bright sunlight, and the Second district aswarm with gay frocks and gayer hair ribbons, and Gene Driscoll (Clem is merely Gene's brother so far as the Second is concerned) distributing fishhorns and cowbells for the boys and flags and rattlers for the girls, and 325 pound Billy Lehane, who body in line to climb aboard the forty special cars of the Second avenue line.

jingled out two nickels. "Some picnic to-day, wasn't it?" The Harlem mothers know quite as well as the Second District mothers that a Big Tom Foley picnic is different from every other Tammany outing in that there will be no gambling games, no afternoon beer drinking under the trees, no toughs, male or female, and that Big Tom's picnic is primarily for the children and their mothers. And so when the first special car shrieked and clattered and yelled up to the gate yesterday afternoon Second avenue at 126th street already was paved with Harlem little ones, arranged in careful lines by Police Sergeants Kearns and fore first crack at the ice cream and things, but by the time the Harlem section got permission to follow there was still enough and more for them also. And amid the jam of little ones wedging their way to happiness as closely packed as far projecting hair ribbons would permit loomed big limousine car in which were seated Mrs. James McShane, wife of the Assistant Corporation Counsel, and her small boy, as the youngsters from the Second.

Small hands clasped ice cream and carousel tickets as varicolored as the delectables for which the tickets later were to be exchanged as the mass with a yell greeted the opening of the park gates and surged upon shady tables flecked with sunlight and surrounded with a brass band companing "Steamboat Bill," a vaudeville show where Buster, Ted. Sport and Bess so their names read in gold tinsel on the dogs red plush stool-already were in full stride, ponds where one might hook up painted fish and get wondrous prizes, whirring carousels, uptilted swings, barrel organs drowning out the band and the band drowning out the carousel organs, and oh, maybe it was bad, perfectly bad'

Tom Lee, Mayor of Chinatown, sent along a delegation of Chinese babies in their native costume. There were Greeks and Syrians, Turks, Yiddish youngsters. Germans, tons of black haired busters from Little Italy, and some Irish. Which prompted perhaps, Profs. "But what do the admission tickets cost?" asked some one with memories of the $5 and other fancy prices charged for chowder tickets at the usual Tammany outing.

"They're marked 25 cents," a badged man explained, "but nobody buys them. Everybody works Tom for nothing and gets the grub free and then borrows carfare home and next month's rent from Tom at the windup. Outside of that the elegical is a mint."

Ticket Man Disappears. Lee K. Ellery, a ticket agent at the downtown side of the Astor place subway station, told the chopper. Frederick Kenning, shortly after 10 o'clock on Thursday night that he was going out for a few minutes and asked Kenning to charge of the booth while he was gone. Hours passed and Ellery failed to return The ticket chopper stood in the booth, however, and said nothing about Ellery's disappearance.

It was one of the agent's duties every night at about 12 o'clock to cross over through a tunnel to the uptown station and sign a number of blanks which were in charge of Morris Enright, the agent on that side. When Ellery had failed to come at 1 o'clock yesterday morning Enright yelled across the tracks to Ken-

Enright yelled across the tracks to Kenning and asked him where his boss was.

"He went out three hours ago and hasn't come back yet," said Kenning.

Enright then went over to the other platform to see what was the matter. His first thought was to examine the cash drawer. It was empty. Not only was the $12 which Ellery had collected during the evening missing, but $321.80 which had been left there by the day man also was gone. Young Man From Troy Learns His Good Fortune While Stopping in Utica.

UTICA, Sept. 1.-Charles M. A. Radmer of Troy, back from a trip to the peach orchards of western New York, stopped in this city this afternoon long enough to learn that he had fallen heir to an estate of $120,000 bequeathed him by his grandmother and then spent enough of his scanty savings to buy a railroad ticket to Troy, where he will meet his father and attorneys and arrange to take possession of his wealth. Radmer left his home in Troy six weeks ago and for the last four weeks lawyers and detectives have been scouring the country for him to acquaint him with the fact that he had come into scouring the country for him to acquaint him with the fact that he had come into a fortune. He is 24 years old and is the sole legatee of the estate of his maternal grandmother, who passed away at Naugatuck, Conn., about two months ago. That he had this large amount coming to him and that relatives had been anxiously searching for him were facts entirely unknown to Radmer when he arrived in this city to-day, and he was taken completely by surprise when an acquaintance shook hands with him and congratulated-him on his good fortune. Inquiring into the nature of the good fortune that had caused the congratulations. Radmer was stunned by the announcement that he had fallen heir to $120,000, and the files of a local newspaper containing an account of the search for him had to be shown him before he would believe the story.
